

FOMUSOH IVO FEH, CAMEROON

Fomusoh Ivo Feh was just about to start university when an SMS message changed everything. A sarcastic message joking about Boko Haram got Ivo arrested. Now he faces up to 20 years in prison.

Fomusoh Ivo Feh had a bright future ahead of him. He was just about to start university in Cameroon, where he lives. But an SMS message changed everything. One day, Ivo received a text message from a friend, saying: “Boko Haram recruits young people from 14 years old and above. Conditions for recruitment: 4 subjects at GCE, including religion”.

His friend’s message was a comment on how difficult it is to find a good job without being highly qualified – joking that even Boko Haram (an armed group) won’t take you unless you do well in your exams.

Ivo forwarded the message to a friend, who sent it to a friend in secondary school. A teacher saw the text, having confiscated the phone, and showed it to the police. Ivo, his friend and the young student were all arrested.

The charges against them include trying to organize a rebellion against the state. Right now, they are in prison facing a trial in a military court and a 20-year prison sentence.

DEMAND THAT CAMEROON DROP ALL CHARGES AGAINST IVO AND LET HIM GO

Write to the President of the Republic of Cameroon

Tell him to drop all charges against Ivo and his friends and free them without delay.

President of the Republic of Cameroon
His Excellency Paul Biya
Amnesty International
Mrk. Skriv for liv
Gammeltorv 8., 5. sal
1457 København K
Danmark

Write Ivo a letter and show him you're with him

Send messages of solidarity and hope to Ivo and his two friends and help keep their spirits strong.

Amnesty International
Mrk. Skriv for liv
Gammeltorv 8, 5. sal
1457 København K
Danmark